THE UNITED NATIONS TODAY
Two plenary sessions for speeches by delegation leaders. (10:30 a. m. Pacific War Time—1:30 p. m. Eastern War Time—and 3:30 p. m. P.C.W.)
By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
San Francisco, April 28 (AP)—More close knit themselves, the Big Four managing this United Nations Conference today ran into a small nation challenge of a world organization dominated by major Allied war victors.

Spokesmen for Australia, Belgium and Bolivia urged more responsible roles for the world's smaller states. Their action signalled the long expected effort to shift the balance between the great and the small.
One immediate success of this pressure was expansion of the conference executive committee from 11 to 14 members. Now the small-state group aims at increasing the memberships on the world security council beyond the 11 proposed at Dumbarton Oaks.

As constituted by the 46-nation conference, the executive committee includes the Big Three, China and France, which are to have permanent security council seats, and these other countries: Australia, Brazil, Canada, Chile, Czechoslovakia, Iran, Mexico, Holland and Yugoslavia.

Reach First Solutions
Restoration of harmony among the big powers brought the conference into its fourth day with prospects for success brightened by Russia's demonstrated willingness to compromise.

Some delegates even hoped for a reorganization of the Polish Warsaw government along lines acceptable to Britain and the United States. Whether it could be achieved in time for an invitation to be represented here was doubtful.

A session of the conference steering committee, which started out roughly enough, ended in a round of handshaking and backslapping yesterday.
It produced these quickly ratified solutions to issues which had given the conference on peace a belligerent start.

1. Through Russian insistence, the delegates tossed tradition out the window and elected four Presidents instead of one—Foreign Commissar Molotov, of Russia, Foreign Minister Soong of China, British Foreign Secretary Eden and Secretary of State Stettinius. It was agreed that these four should rotate the honor of presiding over conference sessions.

"Delegated" Authority
For the two sessions scheduled today, Soong drew the first and Molotov the second. Eden will have his turn Monday.

2. Under Anglo-American insistence, the Steering Committee refused to complicate management of conference work by having rotating chairmanships for the key executive and steering committees. Molotov finally agreed that Eden, Soong and he would "delegate" their authority to Stettinius for this job. That made the American Secretary in fact the chief of those committees.

3. The Russian proposal to include the White Russian and Ukrainian Soviets in the proposed world assembly of nations went through without a hitch. Stettinius endorsed it, under specific instructions from President Truman to carry out the pledge which the late President Roosevelt made to Premier Stalin at the Yalta Big-Three meeting.

4. A proposal made by Molotov to seat the present Warsaw government at this conference was talked down, outmaneuvered and finally smothered under a resolution, which the conference approved, telling the Big-Three to settle their differences over Poland and expressing hope it would be done before this conference ends.

Hung At St. Louis

Paul A. Kinsey, 116 Seminary avenue, received word Friday that one of his photographic prints, "Dew Laden," has been hung in the fifth St. Louis International salon of photography.

The print selected was one of four submitted by Mr. Kinsey, an ardent amateur photographer and a member of the Gettysburg Photographic society. The picture is of a spider web covered with dew.

There were a total of 1,438 prints submitted by 372 exhibitors. Of that number, only 355 prints were accepted, representing 205 exhibitors. Prints were received from Mexico, England, Scotland, Tasmania, Brazil, Bahamas, Australia, New South Wales and New Zealand in addition to the United States.

This is not the first time Mr. Kinsey has exhibited his photographs in national and international salons. He has had several prints on display in the United States, and at least two others were included in national traveling exhibits in Canada.

69 MINUTEMEN
TAKE OATHS AS
CAVALRY TROOP
OF STATE GUARD

Sixty-nine Adams county men were formally sworn into the Pennsylvania State Guard to become the first motorized cavalry troop of the First Cavalry Squadron of the guard in exercises at the Gettysburg armory Friday evening.

Maj. Harry G. Banzoff, Harrisburg, commander of the First Cavalry Squadron, swore in the group as the 69 enlisted in unison the oath of enlistment.

By that action, the company of Adams County Minutemen was activated into the State Guard unit and became the first motorized cavalry troop in the Commonwealth. Two other troops in the First Cavalry Squadron are horse troops.

Public Celebration Later
After he had administered the oath to the company, Major Banzoff congratulated the men and officers of the local group on joining the State Guard. "I extend congratulations to Captain Brame, his fellow officers, the community of Gettysburg and the citizens of Adams county for their interest and the part they have played in this activation," he said.

Major Banzoff said he would have liked to have members of the general staff and adjutant generals department here for the activation, and have a public celebration in honor of the occasion. "However," he said, "the speed at which we have to work right now will prevent that. We will arrange for a public celebration after you are issued your equipment."

The major explained that the celebration had been postponed because the requisitioning of equipment and preliminary organization must be set up before the local troop reports to State Guard camp June 24.

"Spirit of Gettysburg"
"One of the things the Pennsylvania State Guard is built on," Major Banzoff declared, "is the 'Spirit of Gettysburg,' and you men have it."

Following the major's remarks, Captain C. Arthur Brame, commander of the Minutemen company, (Please Turn to Page 2)

BADLY WOUNDED

Pfc. Lester R. Geiman, 28, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore V. Geiman, 155 South Washington street, was recently seriously wounded somewhere in Germany and is now a patient in a hospital in England.

In a letter to his parents, written April 4 and received Thursday, Pfc. Geiman revealed he was hit in about 10 places, mostly in his legs.

Geiman, a paratrooper, stated in his letter that his squad landed in a mine field while returning from an outpost just before daybreak. Six of the group were wounded and are now hospitalized. Pfc. Geiman stated he expected to undergo an operation shortly.

Pfc. Geiman entered the service about three and a half years ago and trained at Ft. McClellan, Ala.; Edgewood Arsenal and Aberdeen, Md., and in Texas. He served two years in the infantry and for the last year and a half has been with the paratroopers. He went overseas about a year ago.

A brother, Sgt. Harold R. Geiman, Ft. Lewis, Wash., is now spending a 30-day convalescent furlough at his home.

ASK COUNTIANS
TO DONATE 250
PINTS OF BLOOD

Hoping to collect 250 pints of blood for use as life-saving plasma, on Yankee battlefronts in many parts of the world, the Red Cross Blood Donor service unit will come to Gettysburg Monday, May 7, for its 23rd visit.

On the 22 earlier visits—the last of which was made February 19—Adams countians gave a total of 2,867 pints of blood. The donations on May 7 will send the grand total about 3,000 pints.

Donors again will have the opportunity to dedicate their blood in honor of a friend or relative now serving in the armed forces overseas. During the Donor Day in February, many persons filled out the special "dedication labels" to be placed on packages of plasma to be sent overseas.

Need More Volunteers

February 19 set a new record here in blood donations when 256 pints of blood were received during a record five-hour session at the donor center in the basement of College Lutheran church. That figure topped by nearly 100 the highest previous total for any Donor Day here. Thirty-seven persons gave their first pint of blood here that day and 27 others joined the Gallon Club by giving their eighth pint.

Raford H. Lippy, chairman of the Blood Donor Service for the county chapter of the Red Cross, said today that he needs more volunteers to add to the prospective donor list to keep the file of names up to the size required to make sure that the county will be able to fill its quota on each visit of the blood receiving unit.

The shortage of Navy doctors has forced the Red Cross to change its previous schedule of monthly visits to Gettysburg. Now the trips here are made at intervals of several months with the possibility that not more than two or three additional Donor Days may be arranged here this year.

To offset the reduction in the number of trips, every effort is being made to provide the unit with its full capacity of filled pint containers—approximately 250—on each visit.

First and third time donors receive special Red Cross Donor buttons while a special insignia, and a Gallon Club membership card, is given eight-time donors.

Service Clubs Will Hear Medical Officer

A joint meeting of the Rotary, Lions and Soroptimist clubs of Gettysburg will be held Monday evening at the Battlefield hotel at 6 o'clock.

Col. Frank Gillespie, British senior medical liaison officer at the Army Medical school at Carlisle, will be the main speaker. He will talk on "The Medical Corps in Action."

Slides showing medical corps activity on the Normandy and Italian fronts will be shown with his discussion. Colonel Gillespie is a veteran of those two campaigns.

20 Midway Pupils

Midway school in Conewago township has reported the largest number of pupils in any rural school in the county enrolled in the Adams County Free Library association. Twenty boys and girls there have paid their 50-cent dues as junior charter members of the association, according to reports received at the county superintendent's office.

The pupils enrolled follow: Betty and John Bolin, Charles Alwine, Richard Leppo, Charles Bollinger, Philip D. Winand, Patricia Ann Wise, Judith Y. Bolin, Barbara Bollinger, Angela Kaehler, Yvonne Weaver, Gerald Duck, Vivian Blouse, Mildred Utz, William Nul, Ruth Small, Nancy Bowman, Roberta Gobrecht, Kenneth Snyder and Dorothy Markle.

The library campaign report from that school also discloses that Miss Minnie V. Deardorff, a teacher at the school, and a patron, Mrs. Dale E. Winand, have subscribed $1 each as charter members.

COUNTIAN IS LIBERATED AS NAZI PRISONER

A McSherrystown boy, a prisoner of the Germans for more than a year, was among fifty-one American soldiers liberated Thursday in Thurheim, Germany, a little farming village south of the Danube. The liberated youth is Pvt. Leo J. Krichen, 21-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Krichen, 341 Main street, McSherrystown.

The Associated Press disclosed that the youth was among the American soldiers, captured by the Germans in Italy, who had been liberated. Mr. and Mrs. Krichen have had no word from the War department.

No Ill Treatment

The Associated Press dispatch telling of the freeing of the Yanks, said that "all of the men liberated were in good condition. Half of them," the dispatch continued, "had been laboring on farms around Thurheim for the past eight months."

"None of the liberated Americans complained of ill treatment," the AP said. "Most of them were from the 45th, 36th and 34th Divisions."

In the group liberated with Pvt. Krichen was Jack B. Tolbert, Fayetteville.

Last Letter in January

Mr. and Mrs. Krichen said the last word they had had from their son was a letter written by him in January. It was received by them last month. In his letter he stated that he was working on a farm, asserted that he had just received his first letter from home since becoming a prisoner.

On January 23, 1944, the young infantryman was struck in the left leg, left hip and left arm by shrapnel. An operation was performed to remove the fragments from his leg. In the last letter to his parents before he became a Nazi prisoner, written in a hospital in Italy on (Please Turn to Page 6)

Churchill Demands
Surrender To Three
Big Allied Powers

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
(Associated Press War Editor)

Prime Minister Churchill in a special statement today in the wake of a welter of German surrender reports said that only unconditional surrender to all three big powers would be accepted by the Allies.

The statement followed a report that Heinrich Himmler, German Gestapo chieftain, had offered to surrender to Britain and the United States, but not to Russia. The Prime Minister did not comment on this report.

The development came as five Allied armies converged on the southern pocket of bisected Germany and the battle in the northern pocket rose in fury. The desperate struggle which the Nazis said would decide the war raged for the splintered quarter of Berlin still in German hands.

Report Revolt in Munich

German soldiers in Munich were in revolt. Anti-Nazi troops in that birthplace of Nazism attempted to seize the Bavarian government and actually for a time had control of the city's radio station long enough to broadcast a plea to Germans to lay down their arms.

A Stockholm dispatch said Denmark could be liberated within five weeks.

In the twilight of Hitler's power, only ten cities of more than 100,000 pre-war population remained in Nazi control, and half these were invested.

Patton Reaches Pilsen

The French First, U. S. Third and U. S. Seventh Armies battered toward turbulent Munich, whose Gauleiter broadcast that the revolt had been put down. A Seventh Army spearhead was 26 miles away. Seventh Army tanks reached the Austrian border on the western edge of the redoubt.

The Russians soon may join the gigantic mopup in the Bavarian Alpine redoubt. A spearhead of Gen. Patton's Third Army rapidly cutting off Czechoslovakian arsenals from the Alpine redoubt soon will meet the Third Ukrainian Army of Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin hammering west through Austria, a front dispatch said. Radio contact has been made.

The Paris radio said Patton's men had reached the Czechoslovak arsenal city of Pilsen.

BULLETINS

Moscow, April 28 (AP)—Joyous Moscow hailed the meeting of the Russian and American armies with one of the gaudiest celebrations in its history last night. Great crowds cheered in the streets, gunners fired rockets from the rooftops, revellers drank toasts in the hotels and restaurants, and by order of Premier Stalin 324 guns fired an earth-shaking, 24-volley salute.

At the German Frontier, April 28 (AP)—New plans for a post-war Nazi party contemplation work by a directing committee that will not get started until five years after the end of hostilities, it was learned today through reliable channels from Berlin.

London, April 28 (AP)—The German high command declared today that Soviet troops had crashed through Berlin's inner defense ring and were fighting on Alexanderplatz, site of Gestapo headquarters. Nazi planes were flying in reinforcements, food, and ammunition to the fanatical garrison, the German communiques said.

LINKED FRONTS NOT A SIGNAL OF END OF WAR

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press War Analyst)
Shortly after the historic junction of the Allied forces in Germany was announced in the capitals of the Big Three, a keen follower of the war-news remarked cheerily to your columnist: "Well, this looks like the end."

Unfortunately that's a wrong conclusion, and one which can lead to much disappointment. This joining up of the western allies and the Red Army is a great moment which certainly will register on Allied and enemy minds alike as signalling an early victory—but it isn't the end of the war.

True, if we had the luck to capture or kill Hitler, that might result in a collapse of his followers. But barring this, the indications are that we must keep on until the remaining German pockets of resistance—the North sea ports, Denmark, Holland, Norway, Hitler's Alpine fortress—have been cleared out by hard fighting.

As the Allies proceed with the kill we shall, I believe, see a startling transformation of the great fighting fronts to which we've become so used that they seem part of our maps. This change will be worth watching, because it will be most unusual if indeed it isn't unique.

Two Immediate Objectives
Ever since the war started the interminably long Russian battle-line has run from north to south, facing the Germans. These lines have surged back and forth, but always they have been more or less perpendicular. Similarly, since the western Allies reached the Rhenish theatre, the fronts have run north and south—perpendicular.

Now see what happens. The junction of the Allies in the heart of Germany has severed the perpendicular Hitlerite front. The perpendicular Allied fronts are now reforming into two approximately horizontal fronts, one facing north and the other south, with Czechoslovakia surrounded. Each will be half Russian and half western allies. The northern front will proceed towards the sea. The southern front will speed down against Hitler's redoubt in the Alps.

The two most important immediate objectives naturally are the capture of Berlin and the spiking of the Nazi guns in the Alpine retreat. Siege Of Hitler's Lair Near Berlin is dying hard—but it is in its death throes. The vast metropolis is burning. The two great armies are fighting fiercely from house to house in the heart of the city.

Meantime the Allies are making a concerted drive against Hitler's Alpine redoubt from all directions, since it is recognized that this stronghold may be the most difficult of all the German "pockets" to wipe out. The point of the haste is to catch the Hitlerites before they've got fully set in their mountain defenses.

From the east the Red Army is approaching the outer defenses of the Hitlerian nest through Austria. Elements of the American Third and Seventh Armies and the French First Army are sweeping in from the Rhenish theatre. And on the south the Allied armies in northern Italy are driving the Germans back into the Alps. The siege of Hitler's lair won't long be deferred.

Abandoned stores in caves and horses found with pack saddles indicate the Japanese are falling back to their second defense line in disorder.

A small force of Japanese planes attacked Okinawa forces, fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced in today's communique. One mine-sweeper knocked down three.

However the Japanese air force has made no sizeable strike against U. S. forces at Okinawa for several days, their mainland staging bases in southern Kyushu having been under steady bombing by Marianas-based Superforts, carrier planes and two Jima-based fighters.

Hitting in good weather, at medium altitude, from 100 to 150 S. Superforts again struck at Kyushu's main airfields today. It was the third raid in 48 hours and the 10th in the past month.

Capture of three key hills in the center of the southern Okinawa front places American troops in a dominating position for the drive on the two airstrips.

hub in northern Lombardy at base of the southern Alps, 26 miles northeast of Milan, from which the partisan radio said the Nazis had been evicted. Other Americans hammered into the great port of Genoa, while British Eighth Army troops mopped up pockets south of the Adige river. The Germans threw fresh troops into the line before the British.

Yanks at Swiss Border
At Bergamo the Americans were 30 miles from the Swiss frontier. The Milan radio said the border of Switzerland had been reached by U. S. forces.

The free Milan radio said German commanders were trying to negotiate a general surrender of their hopelessly trapped north Italy forces. The Swiss said Italian patriots battled 1,500 Germans attempting to escape into Switzerland.

MORE
A partisan broadcast said patriots had linked with Allied troops north of the Po and that roads leading to the Brenner Pass had been barred.

7th Tanks Augsburg
The American Seventh Army seized Augsburg, third city of Bavaria. The French First and American Third closed with the Seventh against Munich, Regensburg and Ingolstadt are in Third Army hands.

The battle in the northern pocket rose in fury. Field dispatches from the Canadian front said the Nazis were being mowed down by the thousands in fanatical suicide charges.

Scarcely a building in Berlin was intact. The ruin was so vast the enemy was unable to house his wounded, a Moscow dispatch said.

The Russians ridiculed a German report that Hitler still was in the capital. Captured Lt. Gen. Kurt Dittmar, formerly the radio voice of the high command, told his American captors that Hitler would die in Berlin.

Russian units could see Unter Den Linden and were in rifle range of the great Brandenburg gate. The Reichsbank has been seized. Fighting raged near Berlin university and on main streets leading to the Wilhelmstrasse. The main post office was four blocks from the Red Army and the stock exchange and Kaiser's museum six blocks away. Potsdam, cradle of Prussianism, Spandau and other suburb, have fallen.

Preparing To Lift Industrial Controls

Washington, April 28 (AP)—To clear the decks for increased output of civilian goods, the War Production Board today prepared to lift about 65 of its 500 controls on industry within the next week or 10 days.

The orders will be revoked at the rate of perhaps 10 a day, WPB spokesmen said, to keep up with armament cutbacks already announced and others expected before V-E Day.

This disclosure followed the nationwide restoration last night of the "spot" plan for civilian goods manufacture by order of WPB Chairman J. A. Krug.

Luck Of 'Flying Tiger' Still Holding Out

Reading, Pa., April 28 (AP)—Luck still is with Lt. Col. J. Gilpin Bright, 26-year-old "Flying Tiger" twice reported missing in action.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Bright, of nearby Cedar Hill, who were notified March 31 that he was missing, said today they have received two letters from him, written following evacuation of the Chinese air base where he commanded a group of American-Chinese fliers.

They said he wrote that he was the last person to leave the field after its capture by the Japanese.

Colonel Bright previously was listed as missing when he failed to return from a combat mission in North Africa. A short time later he was reported safe in Allied territory.

Italian Patriots Block Fleeing Nazis

London, April 28 (AP)—A force of German soldiers estimated at 1,500 battled Italian patriots near Switzerland's southern frontier throughout the night in an attempt to cross into that neutral country, the Swiss radio announced today.

The Swiss government quickly evacuated residents of the border region when the fighting broke out near Chiasso, the broadcast said.

The German troops arrived in the frontier area early last night expecting to cross over and be interned, the announcement said. The Italian patriots, however, ambushed them. An all-night battle ensued.

SPRING FRYERS SELL QUICKLY ON MART TODAY

While all goods went rapidly at the Farmers' Market this morning, housewives made a focal point of the "spring fryer" chickens and quickly cleaned the stands of all the young fowl.

Selling at 60 cents per pound dressed, the young fowl were eagerly sought by women conscious of a shortage of red ration points. One dealer reported his 12 fryers were gone by 4:40 o'clock this morning. A second farmer said his 25 springers were sold "within a half hour of the time I got to market."

A full array of spring green goods also was on hand and disappeared from the stands almost as quickly as the chickens. Included in the produce was rock salad, water cress, rhubarb, spinach, lettuce, parsley, asparagus, radishes and onions.

Held up by the cold weather, the asparagus continued to be in short supply and sold from 25 to 35 cents per bunch. Farmers said that warm weather would bring a good quantity of the green to the stands, but until the temperature rises asparagus will grow very slowly.

Onions, parsley and radishes sold for 5 cents a bunch; rock salad, lettuce and water cress for 10 cents a quart box; rhubarb at 10 cents a bunch, and spinach at 15 cents a quart box.

Tulips and lilies of the valley were the only flowers on the stands in any quantity and they went for 60 cents a dozen and 10 cents per bunch, respectively.

A good quantity of apples still were available, as were the dried apples or "snits." Cream sold for 30 cents per pint and eggs continued to go for 42 cents per dozen, a price in which there has been no change for over a month. One marketman had strawberry plants for sale.

FIGHTING YANKS INCH FORWARD IN PHILIPPINES

Manila, April 28 (AP)—Embattled Yanks inched forward Friday on three major Philippine fronts—Baguio, Balate and Central Luzon—and raced ahead against little opposition in a fourth sector, the approaches to Davao, on Mindanao island.

They smashed forward slightly against the continuing strong resistance from the Japanese defending Baguio, the Philippine summer capital.

Typical of the bitterness of the Baguio battle, two Japanese tanks broke through a road block and reached American front line fox holes, doing considerable damage before tank destroyers finished them off.

The Yanks said they could see hundreds of civilians, who had been unable to get through the lines and out of danger in the city.

In another laborious gain, the 25th Division attacking Thursday night won a height overlooking Balate pass, the bottleneck to which the Nipponese have been clinging grimly as an avenue of escape from Central Luzon to the Carayan valley on the northern part of the island.

Overcoming strong resistance, Yanks at Balate captured five enemy tanks intact and turned them on the enemy. They sealed many cave positions, one containing a 70 mm. gun.

The better part of two divisions continued the slow fight for the liberation of two Central Luzon dams from which Manila draws its water supply. The Japanese have been holding the dam areas since their defeat in Manila.

American assault forces which made a second landing on Negros island Thursday began a mop up of the enemy around the beautiful city of Dumaguete.

A ten-mile forward lunge by the 24th Division on Mindanao island put the Yanks within sight of Digos, important town on Davao gulf, Thursday morning.

Extension Of Coal Contract Is Asked

New York, April 28 (AP) — Hard coal operators and union representatives today considered a government request to extend their expiring contract for one month to prevent any work stoppages.

Wage contract negotiations have been deadlocked here since April 4, and miners have voted to strike if agreement is not reached before the present contract expires Monday, April 30.

Interior Secretary Ickes yesterday asked the conferees to agree on extension on the contract by today so that all local unions will have adequate notice — thereby preventing any work stoppages scheduled for Monday.

In Washington Labor department officials were watching progress of contract negotiations closely, prepared to certify the deadlock to the War Labor board if necessary.

Miners are seeking a 25 per cent wage increase plus a 10-cents-a-ton royalty.

'FRISCO PARLEY AND DELEGATES WELL GUARDED

By JAMES MARLOW
San Francisco, April 28 (AP)—If someone tossed a hand grenade in the San Francisco Opera house, it would be one of the worst explosions in history.

The reason: Some of the highest officials of 46 nations—here to set up a league to prevent future wars—meet in the opera house. But things have been done to take real care of them.

There's plenty of security for the conference on security.

There are on guard the San Francisco city police, the California state police, the army, navy, Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), the secret service, postal inspectors, special agents of the State Department, and police officials brought in from other states.

FBI Is Everywhere
Before the conference opened, the opera house was checked by the army for hidden mines. Daily it is checked to see that every one leaves after the sessions and that no one sneaks in.

A battalion of military police guards all doors, checks all people entering to see they have the proper passes, that they carry no suspicious parcels.

If anyone looks bulky, he's searched.

FBI men, secret service men, the State Department men and local detectives are all over the place, moving around, mingling with the crowds, standing in boxes, planted in the orchestra.

The delegates are whipped along in army cars from their hotels to the meeting place through special streets which are guarded by military police.

Anti-Aircraft Crews Too

The whole area of the meeting has been roped off and no one—including automobiles or taxicabs—can enter without proper credentials.

There have been persistent rumors here that government agents have disguised themselves as bellhops and waiters. Officials deny this. But they say this:

Every employee of every hotel has been checked to see that he is beyond suspicion. And only employees of long-standing are allowed to work on the floors where the delegates live.

Besides all this the army is taking no chances on air raids by the Japanese with a plane launched from a submarine.

There are anti-aircraft guns and crews on rooftops all around San Francisco.

Lawmakers On New Strip Mine Inspection

Pittsburgh, April 28 (AP)—For the second time in a fortnight state legislators and officials toured a section of western Pennsylvania's strip mine operations at the behest of Governor Edward Martin who is pressing for reclamation legislation.

The Mineral Producers' Association of Pennsylvania sponsored a visit yesterday to the borough park at Grove City where 40 acres of once unsightly spoil piles have been transformed into a verdant pine forest.

The nine lawmakers, all members of the Senate and House Mines and Mining committees, and two cabinet members also went to Westmoreland county where they saw a seven-year-old reforestation program beautify a former strip mine operation of the Irwin Gas and Coal company at Slickville.

Pending legislation includes proposed amendments which would increase the bond posted on each acre of land stripped to guarantee proper reclamation, leveling of the spoil piles and diversified responsibility in various state departments.

Then she remembered that it was eight years ago when she was playing a round and, finding her style cramped, she—well, you know the rest.

Leaves From Diary Of War Correspondent

By HAL BOYLE

With the U. S. First Infantry Division (AP)—A small, pig-tailed German girl stood frightened in the middle of a shell-swept street, and to a New Jersey corporal she was just a kid in danger and he risked his life to save her.

Because he was wounded his name may not be used.

The girl was one of a group playing in a Lichtenberg street just after 16th Regiment doughboys had captured the town.

Headless that the town was filled with German civilians the Nazis pasted it with a savage barrage of mortar and artillery shells. From a vantage point just outside, a self-propelled gun raked the street with shells and machine gun fire.

The screaming children ran to cellars. All except the little girl who stood helpless with terror.

Hit By Shell

A German mortar shell hit a few yards from her. Steel fragments ripped through her legs and the youngster fell to the ground, her screams drowned out by the blasts of shells falling nearby.

The young corporal saw her fall. He could hear the deadly machine gun bullets zipping down the street. Without hesitation he dashed out to the child.

As he ran from the shelter of a building, another shell burst near the girl and fragments struck the American in the face and chest.

He fell, but slowly regained his feet, blood streaming into his eyes and blinding him so he had to grope to reach the child.

She was unconscious when he reached a combat first aid station, carrying her in his arms as he staggered through the bullet plowed street. Then he collapsed from shock and loss of blood.

"Those dirty Nazis, shelling their own kids!" exclaimed the medical corps attendant.

"This fellow makes you proud you're an American."

Brief Notes On Lawn Care

The annual urge "to do something to the lawn" is with us again, one of the unfeeling signs that spring has arrived and summer is rapidly approaching. Therefore, even at this late date a few suggestions may save owners many hours of lost effort and many dollars in wasted seed, fertilizers and other materials.

It is, of course, almost futile to advise lawn owners against indiscriminate applications of lime in the spring. Year after year this "habit" persists, yet few persons ever stop to ask the significant question—Why? Lime is not a plant food in the sense that fertilizers are; it does not possess any strange or miraculous powers. It is needed only when the lawn requires something to make strongly acid soil less acid. Thus, until the owner KNOWS his lawn soil is too strongly acid to permit grass to thrive, he should refrain from applying lime. And an accurate chemical test of the soil is the proper way to determine soil acidity. Many lawn grasses grow vigorously in slightly acid soil. Bluegrass is perhaps the outstanding exception.

Most lawn grasses root no deeper than two or three inches. This means that most plant nourishment must be available in the top three inches of soil. Over-winter top dressings or mulching with manure, as well as spring applications to enrich the soil, may bring weeds and crabgrass. And rarely can the owner afford to apply spring dressings of manure on an established lawn, else he may purchase scant fertility with menacing infestations of weeds.

The most economical and effective way to maintain lawn soil fertility is to make two or three annual applications of complete fertilizer, something near 6-8-6 or 5-10-5 mixture, at the rate of 2 to 3 pounds per 100 square feet. Even 4 pounds may be used where the soil is seriously impoverished.

May Alter Schedule

Make a feeding in early March, another soon after the first of June, and the last around the first of September. Omit the June feeding if crabgrass is serious. If the March feeding was neglected, it may be made any time later. Always water the fertilizer into the top soil at once after broadcasting.

Warnings against the "sprinkling" habit must be repeated frequently because it is a widely prevalent cause of lawn failure. The reasons are simple. Grass, as has already been mentioned, does not root deeply. When moisture is needed and but a scant supply is furnished by a light sprinkling, the tender grass roots are attracted toward the ground surface to obtain the light application. There the sun's rays either kill or seriously injure the roots. One good soaking—2 to 4 inches deep—once a week is actually beneficial. Lighter applications are usually harmful.

There are two main causes why grass fails in the dense shade of trees—(1) The tree roots may rob the grass of moisture and nourishment; (2) The species of grass may demand sun instead of shade. It may be necessary to water and feed grass in such locations with a

Today's Talk

THE BLACK GOOSE
Temporarily detained at a Sanitarium for the last few weeks, I have had the opportunity of meeting many interesting human beings and learning from them while most off parade. Also I have been given the opportunity of some enlightening side "excursions."

Two men—brothers—have contributed to making this beautiful city of Battle Creek, Michigan, famous: Dr. John Harvey Kellogg and W. K. Kellogg. One the founder of a great Sanitarium, and the other the creator of famous brands of breakfast cereals. Both useful men who have benefited mankind by their deeds of service, far beyond all monetary rewards!

A few miles out from the city is the W. K. Kellogg Bird Sanctuary, beautifully located among the hills and lakes. Here are to be found many rare and colorful specimens of birds and a great acreage that has attracted scores of native birds to this haven where they can be housed, fed and loved. There are glorious swans of many kinds, as well as ducks and geese. Here many remain throughout the year, and here come great clouds of them as temporary visitors, who are welcomed and fed before leaving for their customary haunts.

Here we saw many gorgeous Blue Peacocks, strutting in all their vanity and glory. Magnificent specimens of beauty. Here also we saw the Canada Goose, the Blue Goose, and ducks of many a variety—the Black Necks, Mallards, and the long-necked swans, so beautiful in their white coats upon the lake. A regular democracy of feathered life.

But what intrigued me greatly was a big Black Goose. He was brought from Australia, but lost his mate. He didn't seem to be happy among his many other friends, and toddled alone and lonely here and there. I noted how happy he seemed, however when an attendant came to scatter grain to the many, but this solitary bird remained disinterested, and when the attendant did his chore, the ungraceful Black Goose followed him, like a pet dog. With no one else would he make friends.

How many of us, like that poor Black Goose, fail to gain happiness because we fail to join the throng and enter into their joys as well as sorrows, one among them, instead of one-alone!

Greensburg, Pa. (AP)—For two weeks, seven-year-old Jimmie Mears mourned the disappearance of his dog Tige.

Then two state policemen risked their lives scaling a 75-foot cliff to rescue a whimpering pup. Proudly they presented their prize.
Jimmie wailed: "But that ain't Tige!"

TEN YEARS AGO
Biglerville Girl Wins First in State Contest: Miss Martha Enck, of Biglerville, a senior in the Biglerville high school, won first place in the state alto contest, at Oil City, Saturday afternoon. Miss Jane Rice accompanied her on the piano.

Miss Enck is the first Adams county high school student to win first place in a state music contest.

Wed in Westminster: Miss Sarah E. Boyd and Horatio D. Miller, both of Gettysburg, were married Thursday afternoon in the parsonage of Grace Lutheran church, Westminster. The pastor, the Rev. Paul W. Quay, performed the ring ceremony.

Local Couple Weds in York: John D. Ridinger, son of Mrs. Lottie Ridinger, 220 East Middle street, and Miss Anna Carver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Carver, college campus, were united in marriage Sunday at the home of the Rev. Dr. Joseph Baker, Lutheran minister in York. Mr. Ridinger is an employee of the Gettysburg furniture company.

Reports Farm Sold: Miss Mary A. Miller, East Middle street, on Wednesday announced that she has sold her farm at Cross Keys to H. W. Shutz, of York.

J. Henry McDonnell Marries Miss Anne Louise Sproull in Philadelphia: J. Henry McDonnell, of Philadelphia, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McDonnell, 140 West Middle street, and Miss Anne Lillian Sproull, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Sproull, Stonehurst, near Philadelphia, were married at 12 o'clock noon Wednesday in the All Saints Episcopal church, Philadelphia. The Rev. John E. Hill, pastor, officiated.

Mr. McDonnell is employed at the Bell telephone company plant in Philadelphia. He has been affiliated with the company about fourteen years.

V. F. W. Charter Received Here: Gettysburg's newly created camp of the Veterans of Foreign Wars received its charter Wednesday night, at a meeting held in the court house. George R. Markle, temporary commander, presided. The charter members include the following:

Raymond R. Fridinger, Roy C. Mackley, George D. Ditchburn, William H. Dubbs, Joseph H. Hardman, Otis M. Hoover, Clyde D. Berger, Allen R. Knipple, Clayton A. King, Fred W. Martz, Richard B. Page, Russell E. Shetter, John P. Highland, J. S. Dubbs, Preston W. Singley, Albert Rottler, Harry E. Carbaugh, Clayton E. Topper, George B. Kuhns, Earl M. Stine, Howard G. Stambaugh and George R. Markle.

"Cappy Ricks" Pleases Large Audience Here: "Cappy Ricks," a three-act comedy, was successfully presented by the Mask and Wig club of Gettysburg high school in the high school auditorium Friday evening, before a large and appreciative audience. The play was presented for the benefit of the senior class.

Robert Hanson as "Cappy Ricks," gave a splendid performance. Miss Jeanette Spangler as the secretary was pleasing as was Robert Fischer cast as "Cecil Pericles Bernard," an irresponsible young man.

The love interest was carried out effectively by Miss Mary Elizabeth McIlhenny as "Ricks'" daughter, "Florence," and Edward Hudson, as "Capt. Matt Peasley."

John Deardorff, Miss Mary E. Wiernan, and John Lawver gave impressive performances to make the play one of the most pleasing presented at the high school this year.

Miss Margaret Thomas and William Penn tap danced between the acts.

Member S.A.E.

You can't trust some drivers too far and you can't trust others too near.

Puzzling to many owners is loss of engine oil around the oil filler pipe or the breather tube. Somehow they never stop to reason that this invariably is a hint of excessive dilution of the oil, the level rising to a point where the mixture of oil, gasoline, water and acids gets splashed around by the whirling crankshaft and connecting rods. This condition is often accompanied by loss of water from the cooling system past a leaky cylinder head gasket, accompanied by over-heating. If there is no over-heating, or no additions of water are needed in the cooling system, then the dilution in the crankcase is probably the result of too many cold starts and too short runs. The contents of the crankcase keep building up when there is no hard use of the engine to burn off the diluent.

The Motor Primer
It almost looks like a single piece of metal yet the water pump on your car actually is composed of around 18 parts, ranging from the body which is the largest to little thrust washers and springs. Usually a special tool is needed to assemble the seat to the shaft so that the shoulder won't distort the seal. Another important step when servicing a pump, or replacing parts from a special pump replacement kit, is to "face" the rear shoulder so as to form a tight seal for the retaining washer.

Incidentally, the pump is more of a pusher than a puller, although if the radiator is clogged the pump will suck with sufficient energy to collapse the hose from the radiator bottom. It pushes water all up through the block and head to the top of the radiator.

If you are one of many who have an extra battery be sure to keep it properly charged. You can't buy a battery, put it away for months and expect it to be ready for service when an emergency develops. Normally the charging should be done once a month, but if stored in a cool place charging can be made less frequently. According to one of the leading battery companies you can charge every two months if the battery is stored in a temperature of 50 to 70 degrees; every three months if the temperature range is from 30 to 50 degrees. It is quite possible that when you buy a battery it needs a charge, for often in storage or transit it will discharge more than normally. Always recharge before the gravity reads 1.240. And keep careful records of the dates of charging.

Mechanic Joe Speaking
"Many jobs around the car are work for two men, but whenever I need assistance with a job the customer thinks I am getting weak or want to load the bill. It isn't so much that the two-man job is a tougher one than something I can handle alone, but rather that it involves more skill.

"Two can do a fine job of adjusting tappets on overhead valve engines. One fellow holds a screwdriver on the end of the push rod to maintain the precise clearance while the other turns the locking nut. I find it handy to have a helper when bleeding hydraulic brakes. He presses the pedal down to expel air from the lines and keeps the master cylinder supplied with new fluid during the job."

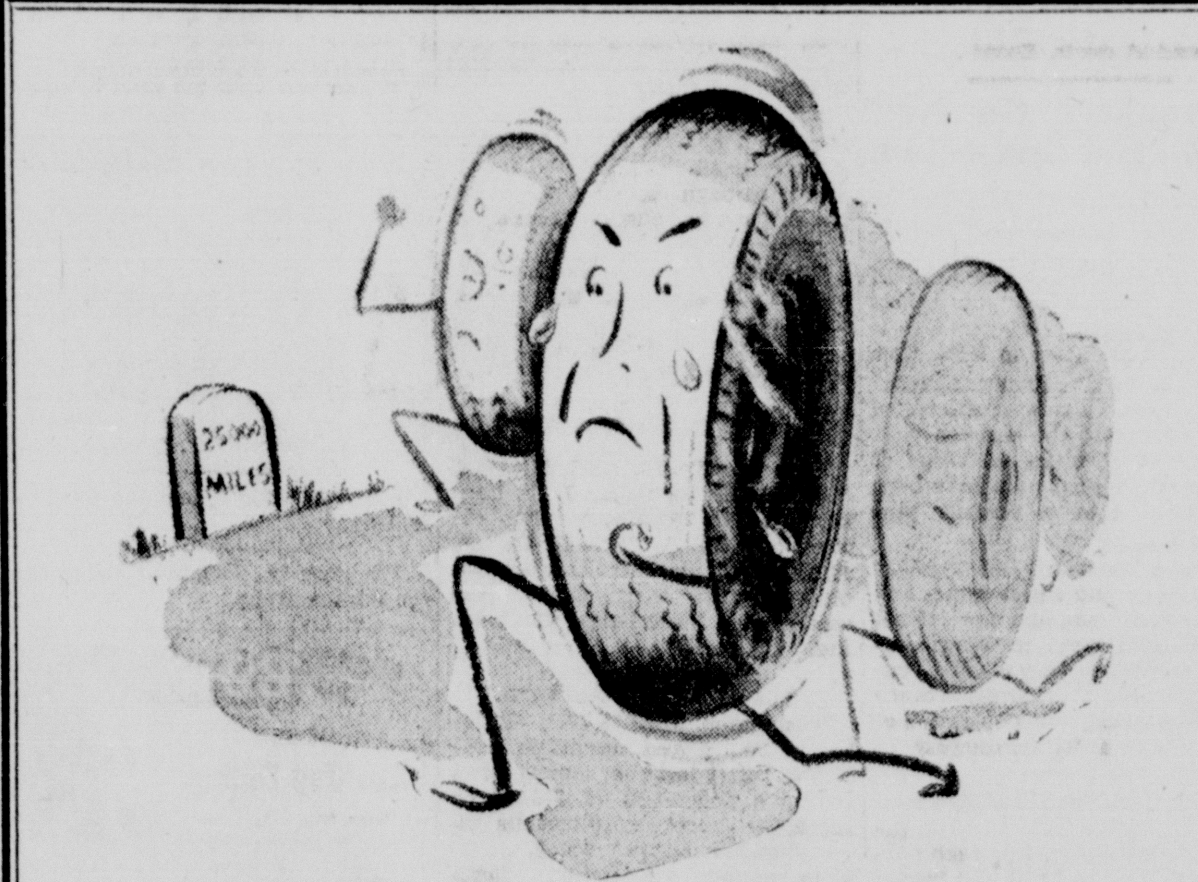

Time for "Scotch Starts"
One of the most effective ways to lessen your chances of having to buy a new battery, or try to get one, is to develop the habit of making what are known as "Scotch starts." These are the ones where you take advantage of a downgrade to get the engine started without benefit of battery and starter-motor. This can be done in a surprising number of cases, especially if you remember to park the car where you can get a little free momentum. If the engine is cold when you take advantage of rolling along in second gear or high, remember to pump on the accelerator twice before starting to coast with the clutch pedal down to the floor. Don't pump the accelerator, however, if the engine is hot. And use high gear. For an engine that is already warmed up just a little momentum is sufficient for a Scotch start.

After a clutch job a friend of mine noticed that there was little resistance to the pedal when he de-clutched. In other words, the pedal went down too easily. This suggested a weak clutch pull-back spring, but since he had also had difficulty getting into gear suspicion pointed to the clutch release levers or fingers which apparently were not properly adjusted. In a situation as bad as this I recommend having the job done over again by someone else. No one would turn out a job like this and still be able to excuse it with a possible oversight.

Buying the Dregs
In these days of spotty distribution it is well to bear in mind that buying the last gallon of gasoline from a filling station pump is a short road to possible trouble. Tanks have more dirt, water and rust in them than ever before, and never before has it been the custom to run them so low. Result is that you are quite apt to get something you don't want along with the gas if you insist upon the dealer selling you the last gallon. It is for this same reason that it never pays to run too low on the gas in the tank of your own car.

Only this afternoon I was watching a friend of mine struggling with a very stubborn bolt on a customer's car. He used his best penetrating oil and biggest wrenches, but the bolt resisted. "If owners would just use a little penetrating oil on these parts for a few days before they bring the car in for the job think how much time would be saved," he groaned. "I'll admit that we can't always anticipate just what's going to need taking apart, but in cases where a fender has to come off what's wrong with squirting this stuff around the union between body and fender so that the nuts will be easier to turn? On most cars everything gets pretty well 'set' through rusting. Don't worry about having people overdo the idea and have their cars fall apart."

Another Spot for Carbon
Where engines have a vacuum control of the ignition timing it is important to keep the vacuum tube clean at all times because if there is any clogging there will be disturbance of the timing. On one reader's car everything would go well for 500 miles after a tune-up; then the engine would start to buck and ping. It was a case of the vacuum control tube gradually clogging with carbon from occasional backfiring. The engine would then run retarded, temperature would rise and pinging would become pronounced. The bucking was simply due to expansion of the valve stems with consequent decrease in tappet clearance.

HOW MANY MORE MILES CAN YOUR CAR DO??

The answer is partly up to how carefully and sparingly you drive your car—partly up to the condition of the rubber right now! If it's wearing thin, and you keep right on riding on it—your tires will be shot in no time!

But if you have fairly good rubber—good enough for one of our expert recapping jobs—you can get many more miles of safe riding out of those tires. Look them over—then drive right over here!

gine warms up the valve working with this tappet starts to hold open, causing the miss. It is especially pronounced at idling because an engine usually runs hotter when the car is standing.

Leaves From Diary Of War Correspondent

By HAL BOYLE
With the U. S. Second Infantry Division, Germany. (AP)—The old "Rock of the Marne" Regiment is lighting its headquarters with powerful portable generators once used by the Nazis to launch their V-weapons against England.

Sgt. Cecil R. Bracey, of Wichita Falls, Tex., discovered more than 50 of the generators hooked up by cables to a German field launching ramp.

The generators weigh more than a ton and generate 15,000 to 20,000 watts—enough to light a small town. They are mounted on two-wheel frames and a small vehicle can tow them easily.

The 38th Infantry Regiment captured the first generator soon after crossing the Rhine.

Staff Sgt. Robert L. Douglas, of Jefferson, Ohio, with the help of Bracey and Sgt. Nelson Krewson, of Detroit, Mich., immediately harnessed for useful purposes this force which the Nazis had used to start the flying bombs on their deadly arc. Regimental headquarters was set up in two of the largest hotels in the city of Göttingen and the generator easily supplied light for both buildings and power for radio sets.

It still is working for Uncle Sam in another area.

One Roasted Tiger

Here's the story of David and Goliath all over again, in another setting.

Spearheading a drive deep into enemy territory in a light tank, Pvt. David Neill, of Emmersville, Calif., saw some German infantry pulling out of a small town.

Neill opened fire but before he could wipe them out or force them to surrender, a huge 60-ton King Tiger tank lumbered over a hill. It was no place for a light tank—it was a 37-millimeter shell would bounce off the heavily-armored Tiger which packed a high-velocity 106-millimeter gun.

As the tiger swung ponderously and leisurely into position for the kill, Neill looked about frantically, hoping to maneuver quickly behind some cover. But there wasn't a tree clump or crevice within several hundred yards.

Neill had a round of high-explosive in the chamber of his 37-millimeter gun.

"Might as well give him something to remember me by," Neill said, figuring it was curtains for him and his tank anyway. He cut loose before the tiger could fire and his shell smashed squarely into a tank of fuel which the enemy was carrying on the outside. It sprayed up in flames and engulfed the tiger, roasting the crew.

One round. One tiger.

Horses, Not Nazis

Lt. George W. Thornburn of Wichita Falls, Tex., can laugh about it now, but at the time . . .

He had a platoon of infantrymen on one side of the road and farther off on the other side Lt. Lloyd Crucius of Berkeley, Calif., was preparing to lead another platoon into a small German town.

Then there came a sudden loud rumbling and everybody leaped apprehensively. Over his radio Crucius heard Thornburn's voice:

"There's a tank coming in on my right front. If it's German I am done for Goodbye."

"The rumbling came nearer and nearer," Crucius recalled, "and then around a bend in the road came a German civilian tearing along with a wagon and a team of horses."

No lieutenant ever looked happier than Thornburn.

SCORE DATING "MOMS"

New York, April 28 (AP)—"Moms" are largely responsible for the psychoneurotic cases arising from the war, declares Dr. Edward A. Strecker, psychiatric consultant for the Army and Navy. "Moms" are doting mothers who keep their children from learning how to meet actual conditions of living, he said yesterday in a lecture at the New York University College of Medicine. Sometimes, he added "pop is the mom."

A SLIGHT CASE OF Theft

By RUFUS NEED

Chapter 20
"It is perfectly asinine," Christopher agreed indignantly. "Donohue will have to stop riding you about that cash box. How did things go today? You satisfied?"

Brenda nodded, her anxiety vanishing in a quick smile at his question. "I'm surprised and pretty happy over the sale so far. I haven't the totals yet, but I heard a few minutes ago we'd almost equalled yesterday's figures."

"Well, there were certainly crowds of people on the floor all day."

"At first I was afraid that didn't mean customers. There were so many sight-seers talking about the hold-up."

"And the police were parked over the place. That's all right by me if they get anywhere."

Brenda sighed. "They found my finger prints on the cash box with Irene's. There were evidently no other prints on the box. The lock was wrecked. That's a complete set-up for Donohue. I seem to have assumed a terrific responsibility when I told Irene she could go down to the cashier with that box! I guess my guardian angel has been taking a vacation since I came to Humbert's!"

Christopher laughed. "Oh, I wouldn't let it get me down. There are always certain things you have to take for granted in a store. Robberies for instance. They are bound to happen in every store from time to time, human nature being what it is. But this kind of dishonesty doesn't touch you personally, just because you happen to be the head of the department where it occurs . . . There are things that never change—in store and out of stores—you have to accept that fact. For instance—"

He was standing very close to her desk, grinning down at her, and suddenly she looked up at him. Brenda felt her vague, formless fears slipping away. After all, it wouldn't hurt to relax a little now and then. She had been on a tension for days.

"That's better," he nodded his approval as she leaned back in her chair and smiled at him. "Fine! Now as I was saying—there are certain things that never change. Like—well like this—there are always pigeons in Grant Park. All park benches are green—always, never any other color—and about this time every afternoon I begin to be hungry and think about my dinner."

"Every night," he continued solemnly. "It's the same thing—I never change I always have dinner. Tonight I want you to have dinner with me. Will you?"

His voice vibrated with a softer inflection as he asked the question. Brenda, who had been following him with amused attention leaned forward abruptly and her wide grey eyes darkened as she thought of the work she had scheduled for herself that evening. She thought of Tom and the dinner Hannah was cooking for them—all valid reasons for declining his invitation. Then having faced the facts, with true feminine logic, she promptly said she would have dinner with Christopher! After all, life had been a pretty grim business for her this last month.

Quickly they made their plans. Christopher would order dinner at a terrace high above the city, and Brenda would meet him there later after she had attended to a few things at home.

As she opened the door to her apartment Brenda heard Francine Norman's voice. She recognized it instantly. Once before she had come home unexpectedly and heard the same high-pitched querulous voice shouting at Tom behind the closed doors of the living room. Then as now they were quarreling.

Brenda had never seen the girl, but she knew she ran the "26" game at the Club Boulevard and when a man called Rizzo, Pete Rizzo, wasn't there Francine was the keeper of the handbook and a parttime bartender. Now something seemed to have gone wrong. She heard their voices rising in a crescendo of anger, easily audible through the thin walls of the apartment.

Walking swiftly past the closed doors she went directly to the kitchenette to tell Hannah she would not be home for dinner that evening. But the maid was not there. Late as usual, Brenda thought grimly. That means the marketing had been left until the last minute.

Well, for one night at any rate, she would not have to face this dreary domestic scene, which each day slipped deeper into chaos. Soon it would all be only a cold, dreary memory. Hastily scribbling a note for Hannah on the back of an old grocery bill, she propped it up on the shelf over the sink and almost ran to the bedroom.

She had a panic urge to get out of the apartment before the two in the living room knew she had been there. As she dressed, a vague sense of loneliness, almost of sadness, swept over her as she realized that this miserable background was all that was left of her home. Rushing through a lightning change, within a very few minutes she was back again in the darkened hall. She was stepping softly and swiftly toward the door when suddenly she heard Tom's voice, and there was something in the way he spoke that made her stiffen with a strange premonition of danger.

MONDAY AND TUESDAY

If it's fun and dramatic suspense you're seeking in a single picture, your dish is "Between Two Women," the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer attraction which opens Monday at the Majestic theatre.

It's the exciting and absorbing story of a young doctor who is catapulted into the strange case of a seemingly healthy lovely young singer who collapses in her dressing room after her performance at a night club where the physician has gone for some well-deserved moments of relaxation.

Involved in the proceedings are Lionel Barrymore, dependable as ever as Dr. Loanard Gillespie; Gloria De Haven, in the most important dramatic role of her career as the night club singer; Marilyn Wynn, superbly funny as a master of ceremonies; and Keye Luke, as one of Adams' fellow physicians.

WEDNESDAY

Universal's latest contribution to filmdom's Hall of Horror, "House of Frankenstein," which comes Wednesday to the Majestic theatre, embodies the three most terrifying supernatural characters of fiction and drama—the Frankenstein Monster, the Wolf Man and Dracula. A vengeful scientist, portrayed by Boris Karloff, is the motivating character who resurrects these unearthly creatures, to serve his own evil purpose.

The film co-stars Karloff with Lon Chaney, and features John Carradine, J. Carol Nash, Anne Gwynn and others.

THURSDAY, FRIDAY, SATURDAY

Dennis Morgan heads the cast of "God Is My Co-Pilot."

Based on the courageous exploits of the brave airmen who battled the Jap over the skies of China in their rugged Curtiss P-40's, Warner Bros.' stirring film drama about the Flying Tigers, "God Is My Co-Pilot," will make its local debut on Thursday at the Majestic theatre.

Starring Dennis Morgan as Col. Scott, of the now disbanded Flying Tigers, and featuring Andrea King, Alan Hale, Dane Clark, John Ridgely, Raymond Massey and Craig Stevens, "God Is My Co-Pilot," is the suspense-jammed story of Col. Scott, General Claire Chennault and their fun-lovin', Jap-chasin' Flying Tigers.

MOTT IN NAVY

Philadelphia, April 28 (AP) — The management of the Philadelphia Phillies is trying to recover from the rude jolt handed it by Elisha (Betsy) Mott's entrance into the Navy yesterday. Mott, on the basis of some sharp fielding and timely hitting in the Phils' early games, was apparently a fixture on third base. Veteran Jimmy Fox probably will take over the hot corner if his ailing feet can stand the gaff.

The first book devoted wholly to spectacles was published in Spain in 1620.

Interstate League Gets Belated Start

(By The Associated Press)

The rain-soaked Interstate league got off to a belated start last night with Allentown and Wilmington capturing victories in a pair of low-hitting games.

The Allentown Cardinals downed the Hagerstown Owls 4-1 behind three-hit hurling by Lugos. First baseman Colvin blasted a ball over the right field wall in the seventh inning to pace the Redbird attack.

Wilmington's Blue Rocks marked up four tallies in a big fourth inning spurt to squeeze past the York White Roses 5-3. George Estock went the route for the Rocks, yielding six hits. Twirlers Jim Patton and Pat McCullough gave up a like number of hits to the Rocks, but Guy Glaser's second inning two-run homer provided the winning margin.

A game between Trenton and Lancaster, winner last season of the circuit's playoff, was washed away at Trenton.

HAEGG TO END TOUR TODAY AT PENN RELAYS

By TOM SHRIVER

Philadelphia, April 28 (AP)—Gunner Haegg, fleet Swedish middle distance runner winds up an American tour today in a special one-mile handicap, feature of the 51st annual Penn Relays Carnival.

But the speedy neekle salesman almost took part in an unannounced race yesterday. Here to watch his countryman, Haakon Lidman, romp to victory in the 120 high hurdles, Haegg inquired about entering the two-mile run.

The chilly air which held the opening day crowd to less than 5,000 finally decided Haegg against competing and John Kandl of Cornell won the event, with Donal O'Leary U. S. Coast Guardsman in second place.

Lidman's feat of covering the hurdle course in 14.4 seconds—one-tenth of a second off the carnival record—was the highlight of yesterday's opener, but the Hume twins of Michigan ran him a close second for individual glory.

With Bob Hume at anchor, Michigan carried off the college distance Medley relay, and Ross Hume sparked the Wolverines to victory in the sprint Medley relay.

The West Point cadets, pre-meet favorites to take the lion's share of the honors had to be content with one major triumph, achieved by Robert Conner in the 400-meter hurdles.

The U. S. Coast Guard, with Eulace Peacock in the van of a speedy quartet, took the college quarter mile relay championship, turning back among others Camp Kilmer, anchored by Cpl. Barney Ewell of Penn State.

Other collegiate winners were Edward G. Quirk of Missouri in the shotput, and Athletic Specialist Fortune E. Gordon of Camp Peary, Va. in the discus.

GIANTS GAIN 5-0 SHUTOUT OVER DODGERS

By JACK HAND

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Ernie Lombardi beat out a bunt! That astonishing effort sums up the spirit of the 1945 New York Giants and points out one of the main reasons Mel Ott's gang is on top of the National league heap.

Lombardi's bunt was incidental to a 5-0 victory over Brooklyn as sophomore Bill Voiselle earned his third decision. Four hits by Steve Filipowicz, including a homer, and Mel Ott's third round-tripper did the job.

Ott has the Giants believing in themselves and they are looking tougher every day although the big test by the powerful western teams still is to come.

Chicago, with whom the Polo grounders battled for fourth place during the last months of the '44 campaign, is the strongest threat at the moment on some unexpectedly fine pitching.

Derringer's Return
Paul Derringer's return to form appeared one of the most significant developments of the first two weeks. When the experienced righthander turned back Pittsburgh, 7-3, it was his third straight victory and fifth in a row for the second-place Cubs.

Four Pirate errors helped seal Rip Sewell's doom although the Bucs outdid Chicago.

Dain Clay did the hitting and Ed Heusser did the pitching in Cincinnati's 2-1 edge over the world champion St. Louis Cards. Clay drove in both tallies, scoring Heusser with a game-winning double in the seventh to beat Ted Wilks.

Frankie Crosetti's pinch homer with two on in the eighth, his first appearance of the year, wasn't enough to save the New York Yankees who fell before Washington's Mickey Haefner, 6-4. George Myatt of the Senators hammered out four hits and stole three bases to help trim Floyd Bevens.

A's Trip Sox
Russ Christopher of the Philadelphia A's joined the three-win pitching club by pinning back the ears of Boston, 5-3. It was the eighth successive setback for the Red Sox who were only five games away from the all-time record.

Detroit at Cleveland in the American and Philadelphia at Boston in the National were postponed and the other clubs were not scheduled.
